OVERVIEW

YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31st 2018

Situation of the Company and its subsidiaries and activities for the financial year ending December 31st 2018

Collectis S.A. (hereinafter "Collectis", the "Company" or "we") is a limited liability company ("société anonyme") registered in France whose head office is in Paris. Our product candidates, based on gene-edited T-cells that express chimeric antigen receptors, or CARs, seek to harness the power of the immune system to target and eradicate cancers. We believe that immunotherapy based on CARs is one of the most promising fields of research in the fight against cancer. Our gene-editing technologies allow us to create allogeneic CAR T-cells (that we call "UCART"), meaning they are derived from healthy donors rather than the patients themselves. We believe that the production of allogeneic CAR T-cells enables us to develop off-the-shelf profitable products which can be cryopreserved, inventoried and distributed throughout the world. Our expertise in editing the human genome allows us to develop candidate products showing new safety and efficacy characteristics, including control properties designed to prevent them from attacking healthy tissue, enabling them to tolerate oncology treatments and equipping them to resist mechanisms that inhibit the actions of the immune system. In addition to our focus on immuno-oncology, we are also exploring the use of new gene-editing technologies in other therapeutic applications, as well as, through our subsidiary Calyxt, Inc., to develop healthier food products for a growing population.

Collectis is listed since 2007 on the Euronext Growth Market of Euronext Paris ("Euronext Growth"). In March 2015, Collectis completed a public offering of 5.5 million American Depositary Shares ("ADS") on the Nasdaq Global Market ("Nasdaq") raising gross proceeds of $228.2 million. In April 2018, Collectis completed a secondary offering of 6,146,000 ADS at a price of $31.00 per ADS, raising gross proceeds of $190.5 million.

The financial statements of the Company for the financial year ended December 31, 2018 include Collectis and its two subsidiaries located in the United States, Collectis, Inc. and Calyxt, Inc. (the "Group").

On July 25, 2017, Calyxt, Inc. completed its IPO on the Nasdaq raising a total of $64.4 million, before banking commissions and all other fees related to the offering, following the issuance and registration of 8,050,000 shares at $8.00 per share. The patents came into force on January 2, 2018 and February 13, 2018, respectively. Two European patents belonging to the same family are subject to opposition proceedings before the European Patent Office.

The goal is that these cell lines would be engineered to resist debilitating viral infections while carrying out their normal functions, or even performing entirely new functions. The "Recode Project" is led by Professor George Church, faculty member of the Wyss Institute, Professor of Genetics at Harvard Medical School (HMS) and of Health Sciences and Technology at Harvard and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT).

This added versatility has the potential to streamline the manufacturing of CAR T-cells to allow their tracking and efficiently eliminate CAR T-cells in clinical settings. This new architecture was developed in collaboration with researchers at our partner Allogene Therapeutics, Inc.
- On September 19, 2018, Collectis announced that Dr. Stephan A. - On February 25, 2019, Collectis announced the publication of a study in The Journal of Biological Chemistry, identifying the Granulocyte Macrophage Colony Stimulating Factor (GM-CSF) secreted by CAR T-cells as a key factor in cytokine release syndrome (CRS). The accelerated publication of these results enables an innovative engineering strategy to be elaborated that paves the way for developing safer UCART product candidates.

("Allogene"), a new company created by the former executives of Kite Pharmaceuticals, Arie Beldegrun, M.D., and David Chang, M.D., announced that the two companies had entered into an asset contribution agreement, in which Allogene purchased Pfizer's allogeneic CAR T-cell therapy portfolio, including the License and Collaboration Agreement signed with Collectis. UCART22 is an allogeneic, TALEN® gene-edited product candidate for the treatment of B-cell acute lymphoblastic leukemia (B-ALL) in adult patients. This authorization for UCART22 is the third issued by the FDA to launch a clinical trial in the United States for an allogeneic product candidate.

The key elements of Collectis' strategy are the following:

- Advance its self-owned allogeneic UCART portfolio of product candidates up to the Biologics License Application (BLA) and commercialize them;

- Structure a commercial launch plan for its wholly-owned product candidates;
- Prepare its next innovative project through an hematopoietic stem cells (HSC) platform;
- Utilize its gene-editing platform to develop and commercialize plant products, through its 69.5% (as of December 31, 2018) ownership in Calyxt, for the multibillion dollar agricultural-biotechnology market. Calyxt is applying our gene-editing technologies to create healthy food ingredients. By selecting and inactivating target genes in selected crops, we believe Calyxt can produce unique variants with consumer benefits.
